

Return Policy

We stand behind our products and your satisfaction with them is important to us. However, because our products are digital goods delivered via Internet subscription we generally offer no refunds.

If you change your mind about your purchase and you have not opened the database, we will happily issue you a refund upon your request.

Refund requests made after you have opened the database are handled on a case by case basis and are issued at our sole discretion. Refund requests, if any, must be made within ten (10) days of your original purchase.